Project Salina: Feed the Hungry

Organizations like DVACK often run out of food donations by Summer. Summer is the time of greatest need when school is out of session and school-aged children begin turning to these agencies for three meals a day.

Project Salina is an effort to stock organizations' food pantries to ensure that food can be distributed to those in need.

Businesses and groups are encouraged to host a food drive to help collect food items for Project Salina.

Salina Meridian Media Radio Stations will be gathering hot cereal as part of the Project Salina effort and will be out between 4pm and 6pm every Monday and Wednesday at Dillons grocery store locations collecting donations.

Collecting and distributing food items during the summer months provide much needed assistance when donations are down.
