The Festival of Trees fundraiser is held annually to aid the Domestic Violence Association of Central Kansas, DVACK, in its mission to protect and keep safe the families that fall victim to domestic and sexual violence in our community.

A mother fleeing abuse came to DVACK seeking help. Her abuser had wrongfully taken their common child. Advocates assisted with the safe return of her son with the assistance of police. Once reunited, they both stayed in the shelter while working with advocates to gain stability and begin healing. The family worked intensively with DVACK's Parent/Child Advocate. Advocates also helped them obtain documents, attend medical appointments, secure daycare, and become established in Salina. The mom has since gained employment and is now living in a violence-free home.

~ E.L. - DVACK Client

We could not serve survivors without the help of our amazing sponsors and supporters, like you. We are so thankful that our community continues to stand firmly with us!

Serving ten counties in North-Central Kansas, DVACK provides the support, education and tools that victims like E.L. need to rebuild their lives in a time of desperation. In addition to our client assistance, our staff speak to many community groups, schools and organizations. In 2021, DVACK served 915 victims, of which 232 victims utilized DVACK's safe shelter for a total of 5,351 nights of stay.

In the current economic climate, we are facing significant cuts in funding. It is critical to our mission that we maintain our programs. Your donation and support will directly benefit the women, children and men in our community who fall victim to domestic and sexual violence.

Please help us continue to serve victims by being a sponsor of DVACK's Festival of Trees.
